

History

Historical data

- (1) Experimental Mechanics and its practical application to so many industrial problems are quite important and attractive over the world. Taking the importance of the enhancement and facilitation of mutual communication in the field particularly between Asian countries into account, several members from many countries gathered together on the occasion of the ATEM'97 in Wakayama, Japan, discussed on the establishment of The Asian Liaison Committee for Experimental Mechanics, proposed by TS-ATEM in JSME-MMD (Chair: Prof. Y. Morimoto, Wakayama University).
- (2) In Japan, the International Conference on Advanced Technology in Experimental Mechanics series was hosted every two years since 1993. In order to adjust to the conferences held in Asia, it will now be held in every four years.
- (3) The first members of the Steering committee were selected in 2003.
